DEFENDANTS’ RESPONSE TO COURT’S APRIL 6, 2020 ORDER

Judge: The Hon. Kimberly J. Mueller

20 INTRODUCTION

21 Whether Defendants’ response to the COVID-19 pandemic violates the Eighth Amendment 22 of the U.S. Constitution cannot be evaluated by looking at just one factor alone, i.e., the amount 23 of physical distancing between inmates. Rather, the Eighth Amendment’s deliberate indifference 24 standard considers the totality of prison administrators’ response to a potential harm or injury that 25 demonstrates their subjective intent and whether their actions were “reasonable” in relation to the 26 nature of the potential harm. Here, Defendants have taken a number of significant and bold steps 27 to address the COVID-19 pandemic—and will continue to take further steps to address the daily 28 evolving pandemic—and it is in this context that the constitutionality of their response must be

1 evaluated. Further, the COVID-19 pandemic imposes challenges across all disciplines within 2 CDCR, but most notably the delivery of medical care. For this reason, and to avoid the risk of 3 separate and possibly conflicting decisions pertaining to the delivery of medical care in CDCR's 4 prisons in response to the COVID-19 pandemic, Defendants ask this Court to coordinate its 5 efforts to determine of the adequacy of CDCR's actions to address the COVID-19 pandemic in 6 conjunction with the District Court in Plata v. Newsom, et. al., case no. 4:01-cv-01351-JST (N.D.
7 Cal.). This coordination and collaboration will best focus the parties' and Court's efforts to 8 ensure inmate and staff safety in CDCR's institutions during these unprecedented and challenging 9 times.

10 DEFENDANTS' RESPONSE TO ITEM NO. 1

11 The Court's April 6, 2020, order directed Defendants to address the following questions: In 12 light of the coronavirus pandemic, what are the constitutional minima required for physical safety 13 for Coleman class members? Is six feet of physical distancing required by the Constitution? If 14 not, why not and what is required? (ECF No. 6580 at 2.)

15 Six feet of physical distancing is not required under the Constitution. Moreover, physical 16 distancing is only one factor to consider in the broader context of the totality of measures CDCR 17 has taken and continues to take daily to address the COVID-19 pandemic.

18 The constitutional minima required to ensure the physical safety for Coleman class 19 members in these unprecedented times must be evaluated in the context of the Eighth 20 Amendment's prohibition of cruel and unusual punishment and the resulting claim for deliberate 21 indifference to serious medical needs. The Eighth Amendment analysis requires both 1) objective 22 proof that inmates face a substantial risk of serious harm, and 2) evidence of the defendant's state 23 of mind about that substantial deprivation. Farmer v. Brennan, 511 U.S. 825, 837 (1994). When 24 officials respond reasonably to a risk of harm, there is no Eighth Amendment violation even if the 25 harm is not completely averted. Id. at 844.

26 Further, in terms of what constitutional minima are required to ensure the physical safety 27 for Coleman class members (and all other inmates at CDCR's prisons), there is no one-approach-28 fits-all answer. Instead, the Constitution requires that Defendants take all reasonable steps under

1 the circumstances, recognizing that each situation is different. This Court stated long ago that 2 the constitutional minima can only be understood contextually, which includes balancing 3 “common sense, and the clinical nature of the problem,” with deference to prison administrators.
4 See Coleman v. Wilson, 912 F.Supp. 1282, 1301 (1995). Expert-based standards are “helpful and 5 relevant” to the Eighth Amendment analysis, but they do not set fixed constitutional benchmarks.
6 See Rhodes v. Chapman, 452 U.S. 337, 348 n.13 (1981). Hoptowit v. Ray, 682 F.2d 1237, 1253-
7 54 (9th Cir. 1982) (reversing injunction adopting American Medical Association standard 8 because the district judge “failed to take into account the approach taken by the State”).

9 Defendants acknowledge that the risk of harm by COVID-19 is objectively serious. But 10 according to guidelines published by various governmental health officials and organizations, 11 there are numerous measures that Defendants can take (and have already taken) to slow, and 12 hopefully minimize, the spread of COVID-19 within CDCR’s 35 institutions. Physical distancing
13 is only one of many measures recommended to slow the spread of COVID-19. See, e.g., CDC’s 14 Interim Guidance on Management of COVID-19 in Correctional and Detention Facilities, 15 available at https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/downloads/guidance-correctional-
16 detention.pdf.

17 In responding to the COVID-19 pandemic, CDCR is facing a number of constraints outside 18 of CDCR’s control. Those constraints include, but are not limited to, the time pressure to react 19 quickly to ever-changing developments on a daily, if not hourly, basis; public safety; the safety of 20 inmates and staff; space; staff availability; and the obligation to ensure that the inmates’ other 21 constitutional rights (such as the right to food, out-of-cell time, etc.) remain intact while 22 implementing measures to address the COVID-19 pandemic. These constraints also impact 23 Defendants’ ability to facilitate physical distancing in CDCR’s 35 institutions.

24 This Court, as a member of the Three Judge Court, is aware of the timely and aggressive 25 measures that CDCR has taken under pressing and uncertain time constraints to address the 26 COVID-19 pandemic—CDCR presented extensive evidence to the Three Judge Court at last 27 week’s hearing on Plaintiffs’ motion seeking a further inmate release order. (ECF No. 6552.)
28 The fact that physical distancing still varies in areas of CDCR’s prisons does not render

1 Defendants' conduct wanton or deliberately indifferent. Even the guidelines of the CDC and 2 the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) acknowledge that physical distancing will 3 vary in prisons. See CDC's Interim Guidance on Management of COVID-19 in Correctional and 4 Detention Facilities<sup>1</sup>, (“[physical distancing] strategies will need to be tailored to the individual 5 space in the facility and the needs of the population and staff. Not all strategies will be feasible in 6 all facilities”); see also CDPH's COVID-19 Guidance for Prisons, dated March 24, 2020<sup>2</sup> 7 (“Wherever possible, movement, housing, and group activities of inmates should allow social 8 distancing of 6 feet between each person”) (emphasis added).

9 Also, the CDC does not define physical distancing as keeping space between yourself and 10 everyone else. Instead, the CDC defines physical distancing as keeping space between yourself
11 and people “outside your household.” See https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/prevent-
12 getting-sick/social-distancing.html. While it is not possible to create separations in prisons to 13 mirror the same kind of separate households that exist in the free world, CDCR has taken various 14 steps to separate inmates in housing units from inmates in other housing units. Those steps 15 include, but are not limited to, rearranging scheduled movements to minimize mixing of people 16 from different housing areas and adjusting dining schedules where possible to allow for physical 17 distancing. Also, no rehabilitative programs, group events, or in-person educational classes will 18 take place until further notice. For inmates who live in dorms, CDCR is currently evaluating 19 whether it is feasible to assign groups of approximately eight inmates to family-unit-type pods 20 that are separated from other pods and mirror separate “households” of people who live together 21 and have less or no exposure to inmates in other pods. This approach mirrors physical distancing 22 guidelines for families and co-habiting groups in the community.

1 CDCR has also taken far more steps to address the COVID-19 pandemic than any other 2 state prisons system to date. For example, as of this filing, other large state prison systems in 3 Florida, Michigan, New Jersey, and Texas have not released any inmates in response to the 4 COVID-19 pandemic.<sup>3</sup> In addition, state prisons in Texas and Florida continue or have resumed
5 the intake of new inmates. California has suspended admissions. See 6 https://www.gov.ca.gov/2020/03/24/governor-newsom-issues-executive-order-on-state-prisons-

8 California is in the process of accelerating the release of several thousand inmates. See 9 https://www.cdcr.ca.gov/news/2020/03/31/cdcr-announces-plan-to-further-protect-staff-and-

11 Finally, the separation of powers doctrine mandates that courts give deference to prison 12 authorities to determine how best to ensure the physical safety of all inmates, including Coleman
13 class members, particularly during times of crisis. See, e.g., Sandin v. Conner, 515 U.S. 472, 14 482-83 (1995) (observing that “federal courts ought to afford appropriate deference and flexibility 15 to state officials trying to manage a volatile environment [in a prison]”). Therefore, the State 16 should be given the opportunity to address these important issues without judicial interference.

17 DEFENDANTS’ RESPONSE TO ITEM NO. 2

18 The Court’s April 6, 2020 order also directed Defendants to address the following question:
19 Assuming some level of physical distancing is required by the Constitution, what additional steps, 20 if any, must be taken to ensure that Defendants continue to deliver to Coleman class members at a 21 minimum the level of mental health care that has thus far been achieved in the ongoing remedial 22 process in this case, focused on achieving the delivery of constitutionally adequate mental health
23 care to the plaintiff class? (ECF No. 6580 at 2.)

1 I. ALTHOUGH THE CONSTITUTION DOES NOT REQUIRE SOME SPECIFIC LEVEL OF 2 PHYSICAL DISTANCING, DEFENDANTS HAVE PROACTIVELY TAKEN STEPS TO 3 ENSURE CONTINUED DELIVERY OF MENTAL HEALTH CARE TO CDCR’S PATIENTS
4 DURING THE COVID-19 PANDEMIC WHILE ALSO REDUCING POPULATION
5 DENSITY AND LIMITING MOVEMENT.

6 The Constitution does not mandate six feet of physical distancing to keep Coleman class 7 members safe. Nonetheless, recognizing the COVID-19 pandemic’s potential impacts upon all 8 aspects of prison operations, Defendants have taken various actions to ensure that Coleman class 9 members continue receiving mental health care services. Working independently on some 10 measures, and with the Special Master and Plaintiffs on other measures in the COVID-19 Task
11 Force, Defendants are striving to provide Coleman class members with appropriate mental health 12 care services, while setting conditions to dramatically reduce COVID-19 transmission risks to the 13 inmate and staff populations. Three central goals guide CDCR’s statewide mental health program 14 operations during this pandemic: 1) preserving life; 2) stabilizing acute mental health 15 deterioration; and 3) providing coping skills to the mental health populations. (ECF No. 6535 at 16 5.) Steadfast in these objectives, Defendants have proactively taken the following steps to 17 facilitate, among other things, the continued delivery of mental health services to Coleman 18 patients under the present extraordinary and unprecedented circumstances.

17 A. Specialized COVID-19 Mental Health Delivery Guidelines & Tiered
18 Response Plan.

19 On March 25, 2020, CDCR’s mental health program leadership issued a memorandum
20 titled “COVID-19 – Mental Health Delivery of Care Guidance,” which provides institutional 21 guidance and a four-tiered response plan to ensure continued mental health care to all Mental 22 Health Services Delivery System (MHSDS) inmate-patients. (ECF 6535 at 10.) First proposed 23 by Defendants to the COVID-19 Task Force, a body established by this Court and led by the 24 Special Master, this plan was reviewed and discussed with all stakeholders. As a dynamic 25 approach to the provision of mental health services during this evolving pandemic, each tier 26 corresponds to an institution’s staffing and operational circumstances, providing real-time 27 flexibility so that institutions can adjust their mental health programming based on existing 28 conditions. For example, tier one provides guidelines to institutions operating close to MHSDS

1 Program Guide requirements, while tier four provides guidelines to institutions with substantially
2 decreased resources. (Id.)

3 To the extent possible, the tiered plan directs that institutions follow current Program Guide 4 policies and procedures including clinical contacts, group and treatment requirements, emergent 5 and urgent referral processes, crisis intervention, suicide prevention, and inpatient referrals, 6 among others. (ECF No. 6535 at 10-14.) These guidelines, developed with the input of the 7 Special Master and Plaintiffs during initial Task Force meetings, strike a delicate balance between 8 providing mental health treatment and minimizing the risk of COVID-19 exposure to both 9 patients and staff during the worldwide pandemic, consistent with various strategies 10 recommended by public health professionals. (ECF No. 6535 at 4-9.) For example, these 11 guidelines direct that individual clinical contacts and Interdisciplinary Treatment Teams shall 12 continue while maintaining physical distancing; groups shall continue but may be reduced in size 13 in order to adhere to physical distancing standards, and larger classrooms or vocational space may 14 be used as alternative locations; patients in COVID-19 isolation and/or quarantine will not attend 15 groups but shall be provided with therapeutic treatment packets, workbooks, and other in-cell 16 activities and shall receive daily rounds by mental health staff; and psychiatry encounters may be 17 via telepsychiatry, utilizing WebEx or Citrix. (Id.)

18 Further demonstrating their commitment to providing services to the patient population if 19 institutions are unable to continue group programming due to physical distancing considerations, 20 mental health staff will conduct increased rounds to check on inmates in their cells and to 21 increase cell-side therapeutic activities. (Id. at 5-6.) Recognizing the importance of patient 22 education, particularly during a time of potential increased mental stress, providers are also 23 directed to keep patients informed regarding changes in mental health services that may result 24 from the pandemic's operational impacts. (Id. at 7.) Additionally, Defendants are actively 25 exploring the expanded use of telepsychiatry by CDCR providers, thus expanding the pool of 26 resources for patient services while also reducing patient and staff COVID-19 transmission risks.
27 (Id. at 8-9.)

28 ///

1           B. COVID-19 Temporary Transfer Guidelines & Workflow.

2           Operating within the framework of the COVID-19 Task Force established by the Court, 3 Defendants are actively working with the Special Master and his experts to develop guidelines for 4 temporary transfers of inmate-patients should they need a higher level of mental health care.
5 During numerous meetings over the past week, including just yesterday, CDCR clinicians 6 evaluated and revised CDCR’s proposed guidelines with the Special Master, then discussed the 7 with Plaintiffs. According to clinicians, the guidelines are meant to supplement the March 25, 8 2020 “COVID-19 – Mental Health Delivery of Care Guidance” document, and provide 9 institutions with further guidance should a patient need a higher level of care. Further, if a patient 10 requires emergency inpatient care to prevent serious harm to self or others or to address serious 11 mental health decompensation, referrals to Mental Health Inpatient care shall continue. The 12 clinicians’ guidelines identify four transfer options, which balance the patient’s need for a higher 13 level of care with the consideration of decreasing movements and transfers throughout CDCR to 14 prevent the risk COVID-19 transmission. CDCR clinicians report that, when approved, they will 15 distribute these standardized transfer guidelines to ensure that Coleman class members receive 16 necessary and adequate mental health care throughout CDCR’s institutions.

17           C. COVID-19 Emergency Mental Health Treatment Guidance.

18           To ensure continued delivery of mental health services to Coleman class members, CDCR 19 clinicians also report that they are developing an emergency mental health treatment guidance for 20 CDCR institutions. Building from transfer options delineated in the Mental Health Delivery of 21 Care Guidance, discussed above, the document will provide guidance to institutions regarding the 22 operation of mental health units and other treatment modalities to inmates at their current 23 institution during the COVID-19 pandemic. Clinicians will present this document to the Special 24 Master’s experts shortly for constructive discussion and eventual presentation to Plaintiffs in the 25 COVID-19 Task Force.

26           D. Population Measures Impacting the Coleman Class.

27           Defendants have also taken unprecedented measures to address overall population density 28 concerns within CDCR’s institutions that also directly impact the Coleman class. On March 24,

1 2020, Governor Newsom temporarily suspended all CDCR intake from California county jails for 2 30 days, which, absent any other measures, will result in a net population reduction of 3 approximately 3,000 inmates. See https://www.gov.ca.gov/2020/03/24/governor-newsom-issues-4 executive-order-on-state-prisons-and-juvenile-facilities-in-response-to-the-covid-19-outbreak/.
5 Furthermore, on March 31, 2020, CDCR Secretary Diaz ordered the Department to expedite the 6 transition to parole of approximately 3,500 non-violent male and female inmates who are within 7 60 days of their release date. See https://www.cdcr.ca.gov/news/2020/03/31/cdcr-announces-8 plan-to-further-protect-staff-and-inmates-from-the-spread-of-covid-19-in-state-prisons/.
9 According to CDCR's Division of Adult Institutions, while not specifically intended to address 10 mental health treatment needs of Coleman class members, these measures will reduce the number 11 of MHSDS patients in CDCR and help improve the Department's ability to provide appropriate 12 treatment for its other patients during the pandemic.

13 E. Mandatory 14-Day Modified Program for All CDCR Institutions.

14 Most recently, CDCR initiated a statewide institutional modified program intended to 15 benefit all inmates and staff, including Coleman class members. Effective April 8, 2020, all 16 CDCR institutions will implement a mandatory 14-day modified program to reduce the risk of 17 staff and inmate exposure to and spread of COVID-19. See [https://www.cdcr.ca.gov/covid19/wp-
18 content/uploads/sites/197/2020/04/COVID19-Modified-Program.pdf](https://www.cdcr.ca.gov/covid19/wp-content/uploads/sites/197/2020/04/COVID19-Modified-Program.pdf). During this modified 19 program, inmates will have access to certain activities and services, including phone calls, access 20 to mental health groups and individual clinical appointments, recreational yard time, law library, 21 educational materials, health care services, and medications, subject to appropriate physical 22 distancing guidelines. Staff are also directed to conduct additional rounds and spot check of 23 inmates to reduce self-harm attempts. While this modified program does not specifically address 24 Coleman class members' mental health treatment needs—CDCR must take into account the needs 25 of all inmates in its custody—it minimizes disruption of inmates' daily routines, thereby 26 providing them with greater stability and curtailing escalation of depression or anxiety that could 27 arise during the pandemic. Combined with increased custodial and clinical staff rounding, this 28 modified program promotes the physical and mental well-being of all inmates, and further

1 demonstrates Defendants' sustained proactive efforts to efficiently manage prison operations in 2 this crisis. (Id.; ECF No 6535 at 5-6.)

3 CONCLUSION

4 The Constitution requires that "reasonable" steps be taken to mitigate the risk of an 5 objectively serious harm. No single measure taken in response can be considered constitutional 6 or unconstitutional alone and in a vacuum; instead, prison officials' actions must be viewed in the 7 context of the harm and the totality of their response. This is why the Court should coordinate its 8 consideration of CDCR's COVID-19 response with Plata, as the Plata Receiver controls the 9 provision of medical care to CDCR's inmates.<sup>4</sup> The Constitution does not require six feet of 10 physical distancing, and Defendants have taken, and are presently taking, a host of proactive 11 measures to mitigate against the risk of harm posed by the COVID-19 pandemic. These efforts 12 will ensure that CDCR continues to provide mental health care services to Coleman class 13 members under these extraordinary and unprecedented conditions.
